

Short CV as of June 2015

Mario Gioannini was born in Siena in 1959.

He holds a Degree in Economics from the University of Turin.

After a stint at the Research Department of the San Paolo Bank (today Intesa San Paolo), he joined the Sanpaolo Bank Holding, where he dealt with the affiliates of the San Paolo Group.

In 1998 he moved to the Compagnia di San Paolo, the foundation that takes its origin from the transformation of the San Paolo Bank, in the framework of the reform of the Italian banking system.

At the Compagnia he has worked at the Department taking care of the support of research and higher education in the field of Social Sciences. He was given the responsibility of the Department in 2009.

By accepting the appointment as the Managing Director of the Collegio Carlo Alberto (May 2015) Mario has decided to accept a more operating and challenging role towards supporting and organizing research and higher education in Economics and Social and Political Sciences.
